

THE HISTORY OF THE RESTAURANT ZUM ALTEN LOTSENHAUS

In 1745, the Pilot's Brotherhood was founded in this old half-timbered house.
The job of the pilots was, at that time like today, to guide the incoming and outgoing ships on the Elbe river.

At that time, the Pilot's Brotherhood undertook the task of supporting the widows and orphans of the Elbe pilots who had passed away.
In the beginning it was just a clubhouse, but over time it developed into a popular meeting place. In 1801, it became a public restaurant, and today is still one of the oldest restaurants in Hamburg.

We are pleased to be able to continue this tradition and welcome you as our guest in this historic house.

Together with our staff, we strive daily to provide our guests with a wonderful time in our house .

We welcome your suggestions and compliments.
